2018 GARNA Annual Environmental Presentation—Wildness: How to Renew Everything that Matters

Thursday, February 8 from 6:00 until 8:00 pm
Chaffee County Fairgrounds, Poncha Springs

Dr. John Hausdoerffer, a fellow at the Center for Humans and Nature, will speak on the topic of Wildness: Relations of People and Place. Dr. Hausdoerffer is the founder and the Director of the Master in Environmental Management program at Western State Colorado University, where he is a Professor of Environment, Sustainability and Philosophy and the Executive Director of the Center for Environment & Sustainability.

His research seeks philosophical intersections between environmental ethics and environmental justice. John's goal as scholar, teacher, and citizen is to merge wilderness, environmental justice, and working landscape movements around the common framework of self-willed communities. He will speak on topics from his book Wildness: Relations of People and Place as well as a new book centered around the question: What Kind of Ancestor Do You Want to Be? We hope you'll join us for this very special event and kick off to 2018.

Informed Advocacy

At GARNA's Annual Event on Thursday, February 8, 2018, we will reveal a pilot program in Informed Advocacy, with the goal of creating a highly informed constituency that is aware and ready to act on local, state and national issues with environmental impacts in the Upper Arkansas Valley. Join us on February 8 to discover how our speaker, Dr. John Hausdoerffer, and his book Wildness, might change the way you look at advocacy. In the meantime, ask yourself, "What old paradigms from the environmental movement am I hanging on to?"
